Introducing the Malwarebytes Education Site License

Many educational institution budgets are tight, forcing schools to struggle with legacy systems, outdated equipment, and limited staff. Even schools with healthy budgets need to put technology investments on hold due to funding changes made at the local, state, or federal level. Most schools don't have the dedicated IT budgets and resources that corporate enterprises enjoy. Yet your school will still encounter many of the same challenges and threats enterprises face every day.

The Malwarebytes Education Site License provides the best value to any educational institution that wants an easy-to-manage volume licensing program while offering the ability to deploy Malwarebytes solutions that scale with the growing needs of your school.

- Site license is based on total number of employees and students for whom you're managing security

- True-up: The true-up supports organizational growth by giving you the flexibility to add additional licenses if you move to a higher volume tier. This eliminates the need to report or order additional licenses each time. The true-up is an annual adjustment of licenses added during the year
- Site license includes telephone, email, and chat technical support for Malwarebytes Endpoint Protection and Incident Response
